

The Next Generation: Aquin optimises MIG21 Web

More transparent and user-friendly version

Frankfurt/London, 18 February 2008. Aquin, a leading software solutions provider to the international asset management and fund industry, has announced a number of new features that will be available in MIG21 Web 7.0, the next- generation web interface for Aquin's investment compliance software MIG21.

MIG21 Web 7.0, an interactive, web-services based reporting framework can be seamlessly integrated into any corporate web portal and boasts substantial technological and functional refinements. Improvements include:

- New configuration options facilitate client-specific layout adaptations that improve portal performance and enhance transparency.
- The user-interface has been fully redesigned to be as user-friendly as possible.
- Improved reporting and auditing functionality is added via the modified calendar feature and a display of historical data that offers an option for in-depth analysis.

The latter is a significant development as it grants easy access to detailed asset information as well as enabling users to enter a comprehensive overview of past compliance breaches, including the breach's entire lifecycle.

The redeveloped integrated Report Engine allows reports to be generated automatically and distributed via the web application. MIG21 Web 7.0 also features a multi-entity capability allowing users to access numerous MIG21 installations simultaneously.

The Beta version of MIG21 Web 7.0 will be available to selected clients from this week.
